2020-2021

I wouldn't be alone in hoping that 2021 is going to be an easier year for everyone. From an athlete's outlook it would be great to hope that the British Eventing calendar can be published and run without any unexpected interruptions or rescheduling of events.

Most of the horses are already back in after their 6 week holiday, and are walking up the hills on the lanes to get their muscles and legs strong before I start schooling them, with only a few horses coming back after Christmas.

The winter gives me a chance to make proper progress, I tend to look through the FEI tests and make sure the harder dressage movements can be consolidated. I find the horses come on really well with all of the extra time I have to spend on their individual needs. Winter showjumping is also part of the fitness plan, highlighting areas to work on, strengthening my partnerships, and is perfect to keeping their minds happy.

My aim would be to establish firm foundations in December so that when I come out in January and February, weather allowing, we can have some competitive and training outings, to progress the horses and achieve my training goals in preparation for the eventing season in March. My spring targets will include Thoresby Park, Rockingham, Chatsworth, Houghton, and Bramham. I have some very talented horses to compete - with an equally supportive and fun group of owners!

Here's to a positive, healthy and successful 2021!
